

AUSTRIA AFTER ECONOMIC PACT WITH GERMANY

Italy Also Included in Objective Which May Effect Merger.

By S. D. WEYER.
International News Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—Economic agreement between Austria, Czechoslovakia, Germany, and Italy are expected to result from the visits of Chancellor Seipel, of Austria, to these countries. It was learned here today following the arrival of the Austrian statesman in Berlin. There were reports that Dr. Seipel would discuss the possible merger of Austria with Germany despite the opposition to such a move on the part of the allies.

"The treaty of St. Germain with its makeshift provisions has brought Austria to the edge of an abyss," declared Chancellor Seipel. "Austria now demands a positive solution which will furnish the basis of economic recovery."

"France forbids a junction of Austria and Germany. England has refused to allow any other big power to gain dominion of the Danube. Italy opposes a federation of states on the Danube. The Czechs and Jugoslavs oppose Italian military expansion northward. Thus, Austria is a spit-ball within a vicious circle of irreconcilable, negative policies of the other powers."

"In Berlin, Prague, and Rome, however, it is clearly realized what a complete Austrian debacle would mean. I am visiting these capitals with a view to fortifying Austria's economic relations with her immediate neighbors."

HEADLESS SKELETON IS FOUND IN PUBLIC HALL

DANVILLE, Va., Aug. 23.—A reporter exploring the attic of the Municipal Hall Saturday made two gruesome discoveries. One was a headless skeleton which he perceived in the half light reclining on the city archives and the other was a mummified baby in a tin can resting on a pile of old vouchers of the city treasurer. The baby was fully developed and had been preserved apparently in formaldehyde. Enquiring inquiry negated the prospect of a harrowing mystery, although the city officials were shocked to find the close proximity of a chamber of horrors. It was not until Dr. Samuel B. Ciamans, city bacteriologist, was found that a plausible explanation was given. He said that years ago the city had decided to make a collection of anatomical specimens in a museum and that the human remains were the first two contributions. The plan never succeeded, however, and the remains were considered as plunder. Nobody could be found to explain where the exhibits came from.

ASSAULT ON KU KLUX BY FERGUSON STIRS TEX.

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 23.—Political circles in Texas were agog today over the daring campaign instituted by James E. Ferguson, light wines and beer candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, last night when the former governor sailed into the Ku Klux Klan, and almost provoked a riot. The speech, delivered before 5,000 persons was made under police protection. Ferguson wasted no time in lambasting the Klan. Many persons in the audience made for the exits. "I'm not anxious to talk to any person who is not got sense enough to listen," Ferguson declared. Catcalls and cries of "Hooray for Cattle!" (opposition candidate) greeted this remark. "If you will come on this platform I'll whip you in five minutes," he shouted at a man in the gallery. Ferguson called the Houston Ku Klux Klan police officers, a crowd of dirty cowards.

DARK brown duvetyn makes the youthful talleur illustrated today. The tailoring of this severe little model is more than half of its charm. Over a plain skirt, with one narrow side plait falling below the edge, is worn a straight coat, flatly plaited into a shallow yoke. The girdle is brown and green metal, the ribbons are brown and the collar and cuffs are of brown fox.

AGAIN the gaily embroidered waistcoat makes its appearance in a talleur of dark gray velours. The open-front jacket, with the rolled and stitched edges, is the outstanding feature of this interesting model.

MARKSMEN TO COMPETE IN ITALIAN COMPETITION

Crack riflemen of the United States, who have made notable records in national and international matches, will compete in the international rifle matches, to be held at Milan, Italy, beginning September 12. They will leave New York city for Cherbourg, France, August 25, and go directly to the headquarters of the American forces at Coblenz, Germany, from there proceeding to Milan to take part in the matches. Nearly all of the European nations have entered their best riflemen in the Milan match, but they will meet with strong competition from the American marksmen. Among the United States marine members of the American team are Sergt. Morris Fisher, who won the individual championship of the world at Antwerp, Belgium, in 1920, and Capt. Joseph Jackson and Marine Gunner Calvin A. Lloyd, both of whom have made phenomenal scores in former matches. Comdr. C. T. Osburn, of the navy, a rifleman of international prominence, will act as team coach, and Major Littleton W. T. Waller, of the Marine Corps, is team captain.

THE first cool day, with the merest suggestion of the approach of autumn in the air, is sure to arouse an interest in the new fall styles. And not only arouse an interest, but a desire as well, to possess something new and different. For the earliest fall harvesting in frocks, I recommend an inspection of a group of dresses that are selling for the pleasing price of $18.95. Midnight blue tricotine and Porlet twill, canton crepe, georgette and crepe de chine, and black also are the colors and fabrics used. And the styles are varied and up to the minute. One has long sleeves lined with a lovely jade green, another has Oriental appliques and inverted panels of pleated chiffon. A street frock is trimmed with moire ribbon, both on the skirt and on the sleeves and long roll collar. Uneven hem line, panels, sashes, bright touches of color—all the newest and most attractive of the features for the fall season. For the in-between frock, for street, traveling or business wear, this unusual group of dresses, is most alluring. May I advise you in your purchase?

A POCKETBOOK that is different has an odd handle of the same material that the bag is fashioned from. This roll opens and reveals a lip stick.

FURS still occupy the center of the shopping stage. The question as to the desirability of the fur scarf is always one that somehow settles itself, for scarfs are favored by a few, regardless of the dictates of fashion. This year the furs are unusually lovely and I admired only yesterday, two scarfs, one of mole and the other of squirrel. They were made to order and ended in a large, satin-surrounded ball, but straight line, or an angle cut, may also decide how the neck-piece will finish itself. The mole scarf, just the right width, and reaching almost to the knees, costs $85 and the squirrel the same. The same model, fashioned from seal, may be purchased for about $40. For suit wear, for early fall comfort, when worn with a street frock or afternoon dress, the separate fur piece has many admirers. Go and look at them today, and take advantage of the August sales; then, when the first cool day comes, you will be prepared.

DOWN in Boston and in Lynn, the shops are showing hose of a checked pattern, grays, blues, all shades of brown, and with or without clox.

JEWELRY bids fair to enjoy the most prosperous year of its eventful and decorative life, due to the popularity of the untrimmed frock, and the Oriental influence. The straight line dresses are an excellent background for beads and earrings. Beads, beads and then more beads. Beads of jade, topaz, coral, crystal, ivory and cut steel, but always and everywhere beads. It is not difficult to go to a jewelry shop, and buy a string of beads, but if you only have a limited sum to spend, then the shopping problem, becomes a bit involved. I am glad to be able to tell you where you may purchase the loveliest of beads, in the most approved of colors and shapes, of composition that often deceives, for the most reasonable of prices. Five, eight and ten dollars read the price tags of these lovely beads, and they will serve the same purpose as the more expensive, from which they were copied. A lovely topaz set of beads and earrings, sells for $8.50, and the daintiest of coral strings, with odd earrings of matching stones, will come within the bounds of a ten-dollar bill. The cunningest of jade Buddhas, form earrings that sell for $5.50, and beads to correspond, of a beautifully colored composition, cost $7.50. "You must wear a bead or two, if they are only humble glass ones."

THE most decorative of boudoir mules are fashioned from dark-colored satins, lined with peacock blue-green silk, and are gorgeous with an embroidered peacock's eye on the toe, and the embroidery is made more gay by the addition of a cluster of peacock feathers. Other mules have ostrich fancies and tulle frills.

SENATOR DIAL'S CHARGES ARE BRANDED MISLEADING

GREENWOOD, S. C., Aug. 23.—Recent charges made in the Senate by Senator Dial, Democrat, South Carolina, that Joseph W. Tolbert, national Republican executive committee man from this State, nominated by President Harding to United States marshal for the Western Federal district of South Carolina, "invariably had recommended the appointment of others than soldiers" in civil service examinations, were denied by Tolbert in a statement yesterday. Declaring that Senator Dial is "persistently making misleading statements or having them made, as to the procedure of Postoffice appointments," Mr. Tolbert declared that it is only in the "classified service" that former service men have to be selected if they make sufficient rating to get on the eligible list. He stated further that his record shows he has recommended a total of eighteen former service men, some of them ranking third on the list of eligibles.

HE JOINS 17 LODGES; WIFE WANTS DIVORCE

LEIGHTON, Pa., Aug. 23.—A Leighton woman has made application to the Carbon county court for a divorce because her husband belongs to the following lodges and clubs: Elks, Masons, Knights, Odd Fellows, P. O. S. of A., Junior Mechanics, Independent Order of Americans, Macabees, Red Men, Knights of Pythias, Reindeers, Moose, Eagles, Buffaloes, Foresters, Craftsmen and the Saengerklub. She claims these lodges and clubs keep her husband so busy that he has not time enough to spend a single evening at home. The husband thinks a wife ought not to mind a little thing like that and feels that she will have to have better grounds than that to obtain a decree in divorce.
